APPLICATION DEADLINE: January 28, 2011
Because program size is limited, early application is strongly advised. Individual interviews may be scheduled with students upon receipt of application.

THE PROGRAM

Human Rights in Argentina is an exciting 2 ½ week examination of Argentina’s transition from dictatorship to democracy after undergoing the most traumatic period in its history: A military dictatorship in which 30,000 people were abducted, tortured and killed in secret detention places. The program is conducted in English and no knowledge of Spanish is required. Students will spend the first 10 days in the city of Cordoba (the second largest city in Argentina), which in the 1970s was one of the major sites where thousands disappeared and gross violations of human rights took place. Students will attend morning lectures by professors from the National University of Cordoba from departments such as anthropology, history, political science, psychology, sociology, or women’s studies who have an interest in international approaches within their disciplines.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Participants will stay in a comfortable, double occupancy hotel near the host university in Cordoba and in a hotel in the center of Buenos Aires.

Disability Accommodations

Students with documented disabilities who may need accommodations during their study abroad experience should discuss these needs with the Program Director and the Office of Disability Services at the time of application.

ELIGIBILITY

The program is open to undergraduate and graduate students who meet all academic requirements of the Georgia State University College of Arts and Sciences. Students must have a cumulative GPA of 2.5 or higher. Program size is limited and participation is contingent upon acceptance by the Program Director.

CREDITS AND COURSES

Participants who successfully complete the program course will receive three semester hours of course credit. Students from other institutions should follow their institution’s regulations concerning transfer credits.

Cost

Program costs will vary at any time according to currency fluctuations and travel arrangements. The cost is tentatively set at $2,300, PLUS regular Georgia State University tuition and fees. Non-resident/out-of-state students will pay in-state tuition plus a $250 fee in addition to the program cost.

In order to allow for students who want to stay in Argentina after completion of the program or to use frequent flyer miles, etc., we have not included airfare in the cost estimate. Students should make arrangements as soon as possible and no later than mid-February to arrive in Cordoba on or before May 14 (typical flights are overnight, so students should expect to depart on May 13 or earlier) with departure from Buenos Aires on or after May 30 (arrival in Atlanta the following day).
