

Georgia International Law Enforcement Exchange

“The GILEE Program greatly enhances the professional development of Georgia law enforcement executives through personnel interaction with criminal justice officials in other countries. Participants in GILEE are exposed to crime problems that cross national borderlines and are provided with realistic measures to combat these problems.”

*Vernon M. Keenan
Director, Georgia Bureau of Investigation*

“We live in a time when global narcotics trafficking, crime, and terrorism are inextricably intertwined. GILEE is a vital program providing international law enforcement and security leaders the essential perspective, skills, and relationships to meet this challenge now and in the future.”

*John C. Killorin
Director, Atlanta HIDTA
High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area*

“I learned first hand on my visit to Israel the strength of redundancy and cooperation in public safety and protection. It is important that we support efforts like that of Dr. Friedmann because without people in the leading edge of public safety in a world of danger at every turn we will not be safe and the world will not be safe.”

U.S. Senator Johnny Isakson

“The partnership among law enforcement, private security, business, and the community is critical if we are to make a lasting impact in controlling crime, making our communities safe, and protecting our homeland. GILEE epitomizes this objective by leveraging private and public resources to bolster the effectiveness of this nation’s law enforcement agencies and stimulating international cooperation, knowledge and best practices.”

*John M. Garrigan
Senior VP of Organizational Development
SecurAmerica*

“...In these troubled times of global strife and the War on Terrorism, the United States and Israel stand side by side, as friends and allies. We share a common cause against terror and tyranny and for the mutual protection of our citizens. Learning from the expertise of Israeli law enforcement in combating terror will help Georgia’s law enforcement to better protect our citizens and we are grateful...”

*Sonny Perdue
Governor of Georgia*
