1. Minutes of the 13 March meeting were approved.
2. Slates for all Senate committees were prepared using the names suggested by each committee member during the past week. There remain one or two slots that must be filled through communications with committee members who could not be present.
3. The committee noted several points of interest.
   A. One committee slate (Admissions and Standards) includes the Provost and two Associate Provosts. Therefore, the office of the Provost could effectively have three votes on this committee.
   B. Three committees usually have compositions that violate the general bylaws. The Budget committee usually has greater than 25% non-elected senators, and both FACP and the Student Life committee have greater than 50% non-Senators. The bylaws should probably be amended to acknowledge this.
